

Advanced Fraud Screening Reduces Online Payment Fraud Before It Starts

With EMV's introduction in the U.S. credit card market last year, e-commerce fraud is expected to increase as criminals shift their online focus from the card-present to card-not-present (CNP) environments.

Heartland

In fact, Aite Group predicts that CNP fraud will almost double from $3.3 billion to $6.4 billion by 2018.¹ More importantly, merchants saw a 94 percent increase in fraud-related costs in 2015—on average losing up to 1.32 percent of revenue.²

To reduce the risk of online payment fraud, Heartland is introducing its Advanced Fraud Screening service.³ Leveraging a rules-based decisioning model, this solution screens all transactions including authorization, sale, refund and verification. It also monitors unusual buying patterns that might indicate a fraudulent transaction including:

- 'No match' AVS responses on street address and zip code
- High-risk international orders
- CVV mismatches
- Large sale and refund amounts
- Refund amounts greater than the sale amount
- Excessive authorization failures and sale attempts with the same PAN (Primary Account Number)
- PAN matches to an account in Heartland's Negative File—a proprietary database of cardholder accounts with excessive fraud chargebacks

In addition, Heartland merchants have access to Heartland's Portico Virtual Terminal to review activity and monitor transactions that were declined by the service. Using Portico, merchants have a 72-hour window to override an incorrectly marked transaction and allow that order to process.

Heartland's Advanced Fraud Screening is available now to merchants connecting to Heartland's Portico Gateway.⁴ Activating the service is simple and does not require additional certification.

To learn more about this and other Heartland e-commerce solutions, contact your Jennifer D'Angelo at 860.659.8900
e-mail: Jennifer.D'Angelo@e-hps.com

¹ Aite Group, "EMV: Lessons Learned and the U.S. Outlook," 2014

² LexisNexis, "True Cost of Fraud Study," 2015

³ Heartland's Advanced Fraud Screening solution will not eliminate 100 percent of fraud, or stop all chargebacks. However, it will help reduce the probability of a fraudulent order.

⁴ Eligibility and restrictions apply.